

This topographic map depicts the Auzelles region, characterized by its green forested terrain and brown contour lines. The village of Auzelles is centrally located, with the Puy de la Rodde rising to its south. The map highlights several forested areas: Bois de Cavet to the north, Bois de la Rodde to the south, Bois de Roure to the southeast, and Bois Raboullet to the west. The N'arilloux river is shown flowing from the north towards the south. Key locations include Cavet, La Fayette Vieille, la Gardette, Laouellas, les Pinatelles, Genettes, and Echandelys. Elevation markers such as 791, 803, 830, 841, 849, 855, 861, 863, 866, 869, and 872 are scattered across the map. A prominent orange line, likely a road or railway, runs through the landscape. The map also shows various smaller features like 'le Sol', 'le Communal', and 'la prairie'.
